The Teahouse Restaurant was originally built as a garrison and officer's mess during the Second World War when Ferguson Point was a military installation. In 1978, the building was renovated and opened as a restaurant. The glass conservatory was added to the south-east side of the building in 1980 and the drawing room was built onto the north-east side in 1982. The Teahouse is now open for dinner, luncheon and for weekend brunches year round, enabling Vancouverites as well as visitors to enjoy the unmatched view from Ferguson Point. Dinner for two with wine is approximately $70.00.

Chef Ralf Dauns perfected his craft at Hilton International establishments in London, England; Windsor, Ontario; Chicago, Illinois and Nairobi, Kenya prior to coming to the Teahouse at Ferguson Point.

He insists upon using fresh local ingredients, fresh herbs and short cooking times. He keeps an open mind to ever-changing eating habits such as low fat and low cholesterol recipes. His philosophy, "keep my performance on a consistent high level, comply with special requests and give my guests a fair value for their money."
